PACIFIC BEING COMBED FOR THE MISSING PLANES

Rescuing Flotilla Has Very Little On Which To Base Position

DESTROYERS GIVE AID

"Golden Eagle" and "Miss Doron" Believed Adrift

Forty-four destroyers, submarines and auxiliary craft scoured the vast reaches of the Pacific early today in search of four men and a girl, lost while flying in two planes from Oakland to Honolulu.

Twelve of the ships rushed under forced draught along the great circle course over which the Dole planes, Golden Eagle and Miss Doran were flying in the $35,000 derby to Hawaii. Auggy Pedlar, pilot, navigator Vilas Knope, and Mildred Doran, "the flying school-marm," are in the biplane, "Miss Doran." Pilot Jack Frost and Navigator Gordon Scott man the trim Hearst monoplane, "Golden Eagle."

The rescuing flotilla had absolutely nothing with which to fix the approximate position of either plane in the 2400-mile steamer trail. Neither the Golden Eagle nor the Miss Doran had been sighted at sea since early Tuesday afternoon when they cruised over the Farallon Islands, 30 miles off the Golden Gate.

Nor could the planes themselves assist in guiding the searchers. Neither plane was equipped with a radio sending set. The Golden Eagle had a receiving set only. The Miss Doran was deaf and dumb.

More than 12 hours overdue, the planes have already been forced to land. Flying experts said the planes' gasoline reserve was enough for only a few hours over the estimated mark needed for the flight to Honolulu. The Golden Eagle, acknowledged the speediest ship in the epic air race, was due in Hawaii at noon yesterday, or perhaps a few hours late at the most. The Miss Doran got a late start from the Oakland airport. Forced to return by engine trouble the Michigan biplane did not hop off till an hour and a half after the Golden Eagle.

Seven destroyers about midway between the mainland and Hawaii scattered today to take up the search. The destroyers were deployed at approximately 150-mile intervals.

Meanwhile, the aircraft carrier Langley and the Aroostook steamed northward from San Diego to pick up the search at the Farallones and to work toward the islands from that point. Seven planes were clustered on the decks of the Langley: Three observation ships were carried by the Aroostook. Radiating out from their "mother" ships, the ten planes will make an exhaustive search of the route.

HONOLULU, Aug. 18 (I.N.S.)—The trans-Pacific planes Golden Eagle and Miss Doran were still missing early today.

The United States naval authorities announced at 10 o'clock last night that no word had been received from the ships that were searching for the lost airplanes and their five occupants.

Navy vessels are scouring the course which the machines are supposed to have followed, but have been unable to get any trace of them. The search continues.

While there is much anxiety for the missing aviators and for Miss Mildred Doran, who was a passenger in the plane bearing her name, hope has not been abandoned.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS IN STATE DROP OFF

July Figures Show Decrease Over Previous Month

OTHER STATE NEWS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 18 (I.N.S.)—One hundred and seventy-eight fatal and 12,548 non-fatal accidents were reported to the State Bureau of Workmen's Compensation in Pennsylvania during July. Complete reports for the state were made public today by W. H. Horner, director of the Bureau.

Totals for July show a decrease as compared with June and also with July of last year.

On the basis of the first seven months of the present year as compared with the same period in 1926, there has been an increase of almost seven per cent. in fatal accidents while non-fatal decreased in almost the same ratio.

Grouped into the three main industrial activities of the state, coal mining showed an increase of sixteen per cent. while railway accidents dropped six per cent. and other branches showed a decrease of more than ten per cent.

Deaths attributed to electricity showed an alarming gain during the month, according to the bureau report. Deaths in this group jumped from seven in June to 18 in July. Seven of those killed were employes of electric light and power companies.

"In all instances," the report said, "the deaths appeared to have resulted from the failure of the employes themselves to observe necessary precautions while working about high tension wires."

Eight of the deaths occurred in the coal mining industry and were caused in most instances with trolley wires in the mine workings.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 18 (I.N.S.)—Prosperity will return to the anthracite regions when large consumers of coal in the district learn the wisdom of loading their bins during the warm weather, according to the coal distribution committee of Shamokin.

The committee, composed of representatives of the Borough Council, the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, plans a campaign to stimulate the buying of anthracite during the summer months.

If residents of the communities in the district will buy coal now it will add at least one day a week to the working time of the miners, the committee points out.

The campaign will be carried throughout the hard coal regions.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 18 (I.N.S.)—A mad Leghorn rooster with teeth has been sentenced to death by Victor Jones, his owner, because he had seriously injured 18-months-old Barbara Kroll by biting her.

This rooster has aroused some discussion among a few naturalists here as it is commonly known that fowls have no teeth.

A. J. Kroll, father of the child, reported to police that while his daughter was playing in the yard of her home she was "bitten on the head and under the right eye by a mad white leghorn rooster."

EDENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 18 (I.N.S.)—Beginning Labor Day and lasting one week, the Cambria County Fair Association will hold the second of its major events this year—the agricultural fair, at the million dollar fair grounds, it has been announced. More than $15,000 in cash prizes, premiums and ribbons will be offered in the stock department.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 18 (I.N.S.)—The fifty-third biennial Pennsylvania convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Ladies' Auxiliary will open here today with a solemn high mass in St. Peter's Cathedral, with Rev. E. J. Holohan, state chaplain, of Hecksherville, Pa., as celebrant.

The mass will be celebrated after a parade of the delegates, who are expected to number 1,000. Very Rev. James S. Fagan, administrator of this diocese, will deliver the address of welcome at the opening session.

The principal address at the banquet Thursday night will be given by Judge Martin L. Sweeney, of Cleveland, recently elected national president of the order. The toastmaster will be John F. Buckley, Lackawanna County president, who has been endorsed by the Lackawanna and Luzerne delegations for state presidency.

—Mr. James Sullivan, of Utica, N. Y., was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grace, of Jefferson avenue.

—Miss Margaret McGee, of 704 Pine street, spent Sunday at Seaside, N. J.

The Candidacy of Mr. Richard T. Myers

(EDITORIAL)

MR. Richard T. Myers has filed his nomination petition and thereby has become a candidate for Borough Council from the Third Ward. His candidacy, as we understand it, is not the consequence of any strong personal desire upon his part to enter Borough Council or to assume the responsibilities of public office, but has for its purpose the defeat of Mr. Maurice J. Keating, Jr., who is a present member of Council and a candidate for nomination and re-election.

It is our further understanding that the defeat of Mr. Keating is not so much a personal desire upon the part of Mr. Myers as it is with those who have prevailed upon Mr. Myers to become a candidate. It is clear, therefore, that no matter what their statements upon the subject may have been to Mr. Myers, those who have urged him to enter the contest are not primarily interested in his political advancement, but are concerned only with the achievement of their own object.

That object is malice and retaliation, and has been frankly admitted to be just that. Mr. Myers, therefore, is being used for a purpose which we do not believe he personally could approve. His personal popularity is being capitalized for an object to which, in his own heart, we do not believe he can or will subscribe.

How could Mr. Myers endorse and support the real purpose of those who have prevailed upon him to enter the Councilmanic contest in the Third Ward?

Mr. Keating, as everyone knows, is just completing the final two years of the term for which his father was elected to Council, and for which the son was appointed at the time of his father's death. He has fulfilled the duties of the office faithfully, and has met its responsibilities courageously and conscientiously. His great crime, his one offense, seems to have been that he voted upon the fire defense question according to his best judgment, which was the judgment of a preponderant majority in Borough Council.

A judgment supported by the nation-wide and State-wide fire protection and insurance associations which carry the insurance of all of us.

As Mr. Keating himself has said in respect of that matter, in the formal announcement of his candidacy:

> "While I have been in Council there have been questions upon which opinions have differed. In those cases I have always voted according to my best judgment and what I believed was for the best interests of the citizens of our Ward and of the whole community. If you have not always agreed with me, I want you to know that I have always been faithful in my service, voting for what I believed was best, and therefore I feel I have the right to ask your support for a full term in Town Council."

Mr. Myers is himself a father. Suppose that the circumstances were just reversed and that it was his son who had served two years of an appointive term, his son who had voted upon the fire defense question according to his best judgment, his son who had uttered the above words, his son who was a candidate for re-election, his son who because of those facts was selected for repudiation and humiliation. What would Mr. Myers' views be under those circumstances?

Would Mr. Myers like to think of his son as the victim of such malice and vindictiveness? Would any parent in the Third Ward like to think of his or her son as the victim of the same vengefulness? We do not think so, and hence we say very frankly that we do not believe that Mr. Myers can or will subscribe to, or help to further, that which is the purpose, and the only purpose, of those who have prevailed upon him to enter the contest against Mr. Keating.

Justice and square-dealing are in the hands of Mr. Myers. The law takes cognizance of just such errors of judgment or intent, by providing a brief period within which a candidacy may be withdrawn.

Let's have justice and square-dealing for a young man who has served faithfully and well; against whom the only criticism or complaint is upon his vote upon a single question; who has fully earned and rightfully deserves a full elective term.

The performance of this act of justice and fair dealing, for the time being, rests in Mr. Myers' hands by withdrawing from this contest.

LATE NEWS

BOSTON, Aug. 18 (I.N.S.)—Search for one of three men believed shot by a sentry when prowling about the United States Naval Ammunition Depot in Hingham and the expectation that the State Supreme Court would hand down the decision in the Sacco-Vanzetti case held the center of interest here today.

The Hingham trio, carrying packages, disregarded the order of the sentry and went by the iron fence, which surrounds the government property. Shots fired in the air failed to stop them and the sentry and a companion, who came up on horseback, fired a volley directly at the prowlers. The trio fled from the vicinity of 2,000,000 pounds of TNT and other high explosives.

MONROE CO. FARMERS MAKE TOUR OF BUCKS

Nearly 400 Farmers Visit Places of Interest, Including National Farm School

CO. AGT. DECKER LEADS

FARM SCHOOL, Aug. 18.—Farmers in Bucks County who might be discouraged with the future in agriculture or their lot at the present time, would have been greatly benefitted had they heard the comments yesterday concerning Bucks County agriculture made by farmers from Monroe County who picked Bucks County as the destination for their annual automobile tour.

There were close to 400 farmers in the long caravan of cars that made the trip yesterday from Stroudsburg, the county seat of Monroe County, to Bucks County. The first stop was made at National Farm School, and others included an inspection trip over the Burpee testing grounds, the Mercer Museum at Doylestown, the famous hatcheries at Frenchtown, N. J., and several dairy farms.

The tour was under the auspices of the Monroe County Agricultural Extension Association and was led by County Agent Roy M. Decker, of Stroudsburg.

"We come from a county where our real big crop is summer boarders," declared County Agent Decker as he spoke of Bucks County farms and what they saw while motoring through. "The agriculture in the western part of Monroe County compares somewhat with Bucks County, but as a general thing the contrast is very great. In Bucks County you have something to be proud of as farmers. Farm conditions here, I would describe as being delightful. Our season is somewhat shorter than yours.

"In Monroe County there were 1593 farms in 1920 compared with 1818 in 1925. The decrease is due to the fact that many city folks are buying up the farms and making summer homes out of them. It is a big center for summer vacationists and summer homes. The few farms we do have are fine and the farmers seem satisfied as a lot, for they have taken advantage of the opportunity to sell their produce right at home to the summer hotels and boarders."

Other Monroe County farmers interviewed stated that it is the progressive and scientific farmer in Monroe County that is making good, a condition that exists anywhere in the state.

"We selected National Farm School and Bucks County in general for our tour this year upon the suggestion of our own people who have been through this section," said County Agent Decker. "The agricultural conditions are more encouraging in Bucks County and for that reason our farmers are seeking more inspiration here."

The tourists took basket lunch here on the campus at noon, after which Cletus L. Goodling, dean of the school, briefly outlined the work being done at Farm School. There followed, an inspection trip of the dairy plant of the school, the buildings in general and a motor ride over the 1100 acres of the school plant.

Monroe County farmers highly praised the efforts being put forth by Dean Goodling and expressed the desire of having such a school in Monroe County where farmers could get advice and consult with the faculty members.

The peach crop of about 3000 baskets at Farm School this year attracted a lot of attention, as did the famous Golden Lad bull that is attracting the attention of dairymen throughout the East.

While at the school a representative of the Japanese Beetle division of the United States Department of Agriculture, outlined plans of the department for combatting beetle-spread. He said that at the present time the infestation in Bucks County and especially this section, is very light.

At the Burpee testing grounds after the inspection of Farm School's plant, the farmers witnessed what many

MAN'S SPARE TIME IS SPENT ON NOVEL WORK

C. Hanson, Hulmeville, Places Novelties in Small-Mouthed Bottles

IS ALSO TAXIDERMIST

The manner in which spare time is pleasantly whiled away or passed in an advantageous and profitable manner varies. A short time ago our attention was called to intricate work indulged in in spare moments of the evenings by Christian Hanson, of Hulmeville.

Mr. Hanson has found much joy in an apparently magical work, that of placing in small-mouthed bottles boats or other novelties that fill the entire receptacle.

The finished products are looked upon in awe by many, and the task is a tedious and painstaking one.

Attention was called recently to one glass bottle in particular, about one foot in length, with a diameter of approximately five inches. Encased in this is a three-masted vessel, intricately put together. It has been neatly painted in two colors, and from mast to mast are tiny strings which might be used for sail-ropes.

This boat appears to be plying the waves, which have been formed of a basic material in green and white. Back of the craft appears the shore, with shrubbery of green. Here and there are small buildings, about one dozen in number. These houses and a small church are made of wood, and are likewise painted.

Mr. Hanson has made a number of such models during his lifetime, and finds much pleasure in such a pastime.

A large portion of his spare hours is also spent in cleaning and arranging furs, from animals he has trapped, for neckpieces. Some of the smaller residents of the forest and field have been stuffed by Mr. Hanson, this group including owls, weasels, squirrels, etc.

PATH TO WHITE HOUSE

There is in the United States no set path which one must follow, as is the case in most foreign countries, in order to arrive at the highest elective office in the land. Standardization of national politics has stopped before that point.

For their president the American people have plucked men from obscurity as well as from the public spotlight. The log cabin birthplace is as near a common denominator as can be found for white house occupants.

In a modern tendency there is seen evidence both of this absence of standardization and of a trend toward standardization. The nation appears to be assimulating a new theory in regard to the qualifications of its chief executives; that they shall have been trained in the gubernatorial school for the larger responsibilities which they seek to assume.

Three of the last five presidents, including Mr. Coolidge, were elevated from governor to president, and five of the men mentioned for the 1928 presidential nominations are governors or ex-governors. On the Republican side there are President Coolidge and Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois. The Democrats mention Smith of New York, Ritchie of Maryland, and Donahey of Ohio.

It makes for betterment of federal government, no doubt, that those who ascend to the presidency should have had training in public affairs. Yet, there is some soundness in the argument that the duties of a state executive may prevent him from gaining the national viewpoint needed in the white house. The natural and logical step seems to be from congress or the cabinet to the presidency.

However, a man who has been governor of a large state has had experience of an executive nature that serves a good purpose in the larger job in Washington and may more than compensate for the provincial viewpoint.

ARTISTS OR ARTISANS

The quarrel between labor unions and immigration authorities over which stage and movie folk and musicians from abroad are "artists" and which are "contract labor" may provoke from both sides of "Lindy's lake" some of those unexpurgated crevices which the flappers call "dirty digs."

"Artists" are not subject to regular immigration regulations, and that classification includes actors, actresses, musicians and theatrical directors. The question raised by the musicians' union, which finds the competition of the imported "artists" too keen, is where lies the line of demarcation between the artist and the contract laborer?

Hundred per cent. Americans, who read that there are 425 alien-born directors and players in the American films, will begin to find flaws in American movies now that they can blame it on a foreign invasion. This will be more than compensated for by the patriotic obligation to laud Yankee pictures it places upon the countrymen of the alien film folk who have been blaming the universal popularity of those pictures for the ills of the world.

What most puzzles some is why labor leaders were so long in discovering that "artists" covers a multitude of "hams."

In the old days the difference between a nobody and a somebody was in the blood. Now it's in the bank.

Watch Elimination!
Good Health Depends Upon Good Elimination.
RETENTION of bodily waste in the blood is called a "toxic condition." This often gives rise to a dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. Thousands have learned to assist their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of a stimulant diuretic. 50,000 users give Doan's signed endorsement. Ask your neighbor!

termed "the most beautiful sight they ever had the occasion to gaze upon." They referred to the many acres of bright-colored flowers and thousands of blooms of scores of varieties.

Women of the party prevailed upon their husbands to make a side trip to the Mercer Museum, and the expression of delight at that feature of the trip showed that it was one of the highlights.

"I never knew Bucks County was such an interesting place," said one woman in the party. "When summer boarders in our section desire something unusual, I shall certainly direct them to Bucks County," she continued. "I feel that the day was one that was worth while."

"Wandering Moose" Expresses Appreciation

Lodge as a Brother Moose.

I am known as the Wandering Moose throughout the U. S. and Canada, having travelled through 33 States, and touched Canada on the north twice, and Mexico once, in the interest of Moose and Veterans of Foreign Wars. I have visited over 300 Moose Lodges and 290 Vets Organizations; Mooseheart, the capital city of the Moose, six times; as well as Moosehaven, the home for the aged Moose; National Home for the Veterans and children, in which they are patterning after the Moose, which is a God-send to our order.

I am on my way to Philadelphia for the Supreme Convention of the Loyal Order of Moose, and then to Providence, R. I., as a delegate to the National Encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. I have a letter to the Mayor of Philadelphia, and one also for the Mayor of Providence, R. I.

Again I take pleasure in thanking Bucks Lodge for the kindness shown me.

Yours fraternally,
JAMES B. O'CONNERS,
"The Wandering Moose," and V. F. W. Hiker.

Scouts, In Camp, Vie For Athletic Honors

the fellows had finished a very enjoyable breakfast they spent an hour in cleaning up the campus of the camp.

Blankets were then aired and Scoutcraft instructions were given. By the time that swimming was blown, the boys were hot and quite ready to enter the water. After a period of swimming enjoyed by everyone the boys, quite refreshed, returned to their tents and dressed for inspection.

Then came dinner call and, my! how those boys rushed to the mess hall for their grub. After they had eaten their full and bought their daily 10 cents worth in the store, they returned to Scoutcraft and activities. That afternoon an athletic meet was held and the following gives the results:

Younger boys: Davis, first; Bell, second; Strathy, third.

In the push-up: New, first; Heaton, second; Bell, third.

In the 25-yard dash: Bill Lentz, first; George Heaton, second; Herman Zettler, third.

Standing broad jump: New, first; Mariner, second; Davis, third.

Standing high jump: Heaton and Mariner, tie for first; New, third.

Running high jump: Mariner, first; Wichser, second; Allen, third.

Following dismissal the boys went to mess.

A night game called "Capture the Flag" was played, after which taps were sounded.

POLLYANNA COLYUM

"The street car service is rotten. Always overcrowded."

"Yes, but father, you got a seat, didn't you?"

"Yes, but your poor mother had to stand all the way."

Six months of matrimony will often make a snapping turtle out of a turtle dove.

—o—

Life is good, but who knows that death may not be better?

—o—

The patient saleswoman brought out the seventeenth hat. The customer seemed impressed, but her doting husband spoke up with decision:

"That hat does not become you, my angel."

The saleswoman produced another.

"And that certainly is not worthy of you, my angel."

"I fear we cannot suit your angel," said the saleswoman, finally. "We have nothing in the way of a halo."

A hug is a roundabout way of expressing affection.

When a man is so stingy as to borrow a newspaper when he is able to buy, he will talk through his nose to save wearing out his teeth.

—o—

Bill Clerk: "Just one kiss, dear, would keep me happy for a week."

His Best Girl: "Wait a minute and I'll fix you up for life."

—o—

A revival was raging in a Virginia colored church. The fruits had been considerable. One obdurate soul, however, resisted the efforts of the elder. Called to account for his reluctancy, he replied:

"Yo' see how it is, Elder. I'se got a problem. I don't see how I'se gwine git mah shirt on ovah my wings when I gits to Glory."

"Dat ain't yo' problem," retorted the exhorter promptly. "Yo' problem is how yo' gwine git yo' hat on ovah yo' horns."

—o—

David: "Look here, this is unbearable. Yesterday I found a white hair in the soup, and today a black one."

The Waitress: "I'm not surprised, sir; we've changed cooks."

—o—

Static: Something that keeps your guest from knowing what a fine radio set you've got.

—o—

Gladys: "Engaged to five girls at once? How do you explain such conduct?"

Charles: "I don't know. I suppose Cupid must have shot me with a machine gun."

—o—

Religion only seems to make a chronic liar more so.

—o—

Clerk: "Haven't I seen you somewhere before?"

New Customer (who believes in shopping around): "Perhaps. I've been to a lot of other places."

—o—

Nowadays, when a man marries, he doesn't give his name to the girl. She just borrows it for a little while.

Virtue pays! The "S" is crooked, but look what a straight and narrow path does for it: $.

Of all diseases none is so greatly enjoyed by some as rheumatism.

—o—

"A girl can't help it when she's pretty," it is claimed, "and she never tries." But a lot of them who aren't pretty try to help it, and make things considerably worse.

—o—

A new clerk dictating a few days ago, was in doubt as to the use of a certain phrase, so he said to the stenographer: "Do you retire a loan?" and the wistful eyed one interrupted rather sleepily, "No, I sleep with mama."

—o—

Brown: "I understand that Senator Green wanted you to act as his private secretary."

Simmons: "He did, but I wouldn't accept the position because I would have to sign everything 'Green per Simmons'."

—o—

New Invention: Blow-out patches for women's rubber self-reducing corsets.

—o—

Barber Genius: "What flavor lather do you prefer, sir? We, ah, have lemon, strawberry and banana today."

—o—

First Clerk: "Notice how cool the boss got all at once?"

Second Clerk: "Yes, he just got a draft from the bank."

Love note to a vegetarian: "Dear Sweet Patootie: Where have you bean? Don't you carrot all for me? My heart beets faster when the sun shines on your radish hair and glints off your turned up nose. If you cantaloupe, lettuce marry. We will make a happy pear. Let's orange it that way. Your sweet, Corn Onno Cobb."
